Australian National Imams Council

[ANIC]

Uniting the Imams and the Community in Australia

ANIC

The Australian National Imams Council (ANIC) is the only central, Islamic body that holds key representation from Australian-based Muslim Imams and Clerics.

Registered as a public company, ANIC was established in late 2006 as an umbrella organisation consisting of a Council of Imams, representing each Australian State and Territory.

ANIC seeks to unite the Councils of Imams of Australian States and Territories in order to streamline the activities of scholars in Australia, to better serve the Australian Muslim community throughout the nation.

ANIC is governed by a General Assembly on the executive board, solely elected by the board's members. At the Council's inaugural General Assembly Meeting held in March 2006, the ANIC executive board of 18 members representing all States and Territories were elected for a three-year term.

A key resolution passed at the inaugural AGM empowered the executive board to elect and appoint the position of The Grand Mufti of Australia. The Australian National Imams Council (ANIC) is the only central, Islamic body that holds key representation from Australian-based Muslim Imams and Clerics.

Our Vision

The vision of the ANIC is to be a leading body representing mainstream Islam in Australia. ANIC aims to utilise the skills, qualifications and expertise of Imams and Islamic scholars to promote and contribute to the betterment of the Australian Islamic community and the wider Australian society at large.

Our Mission

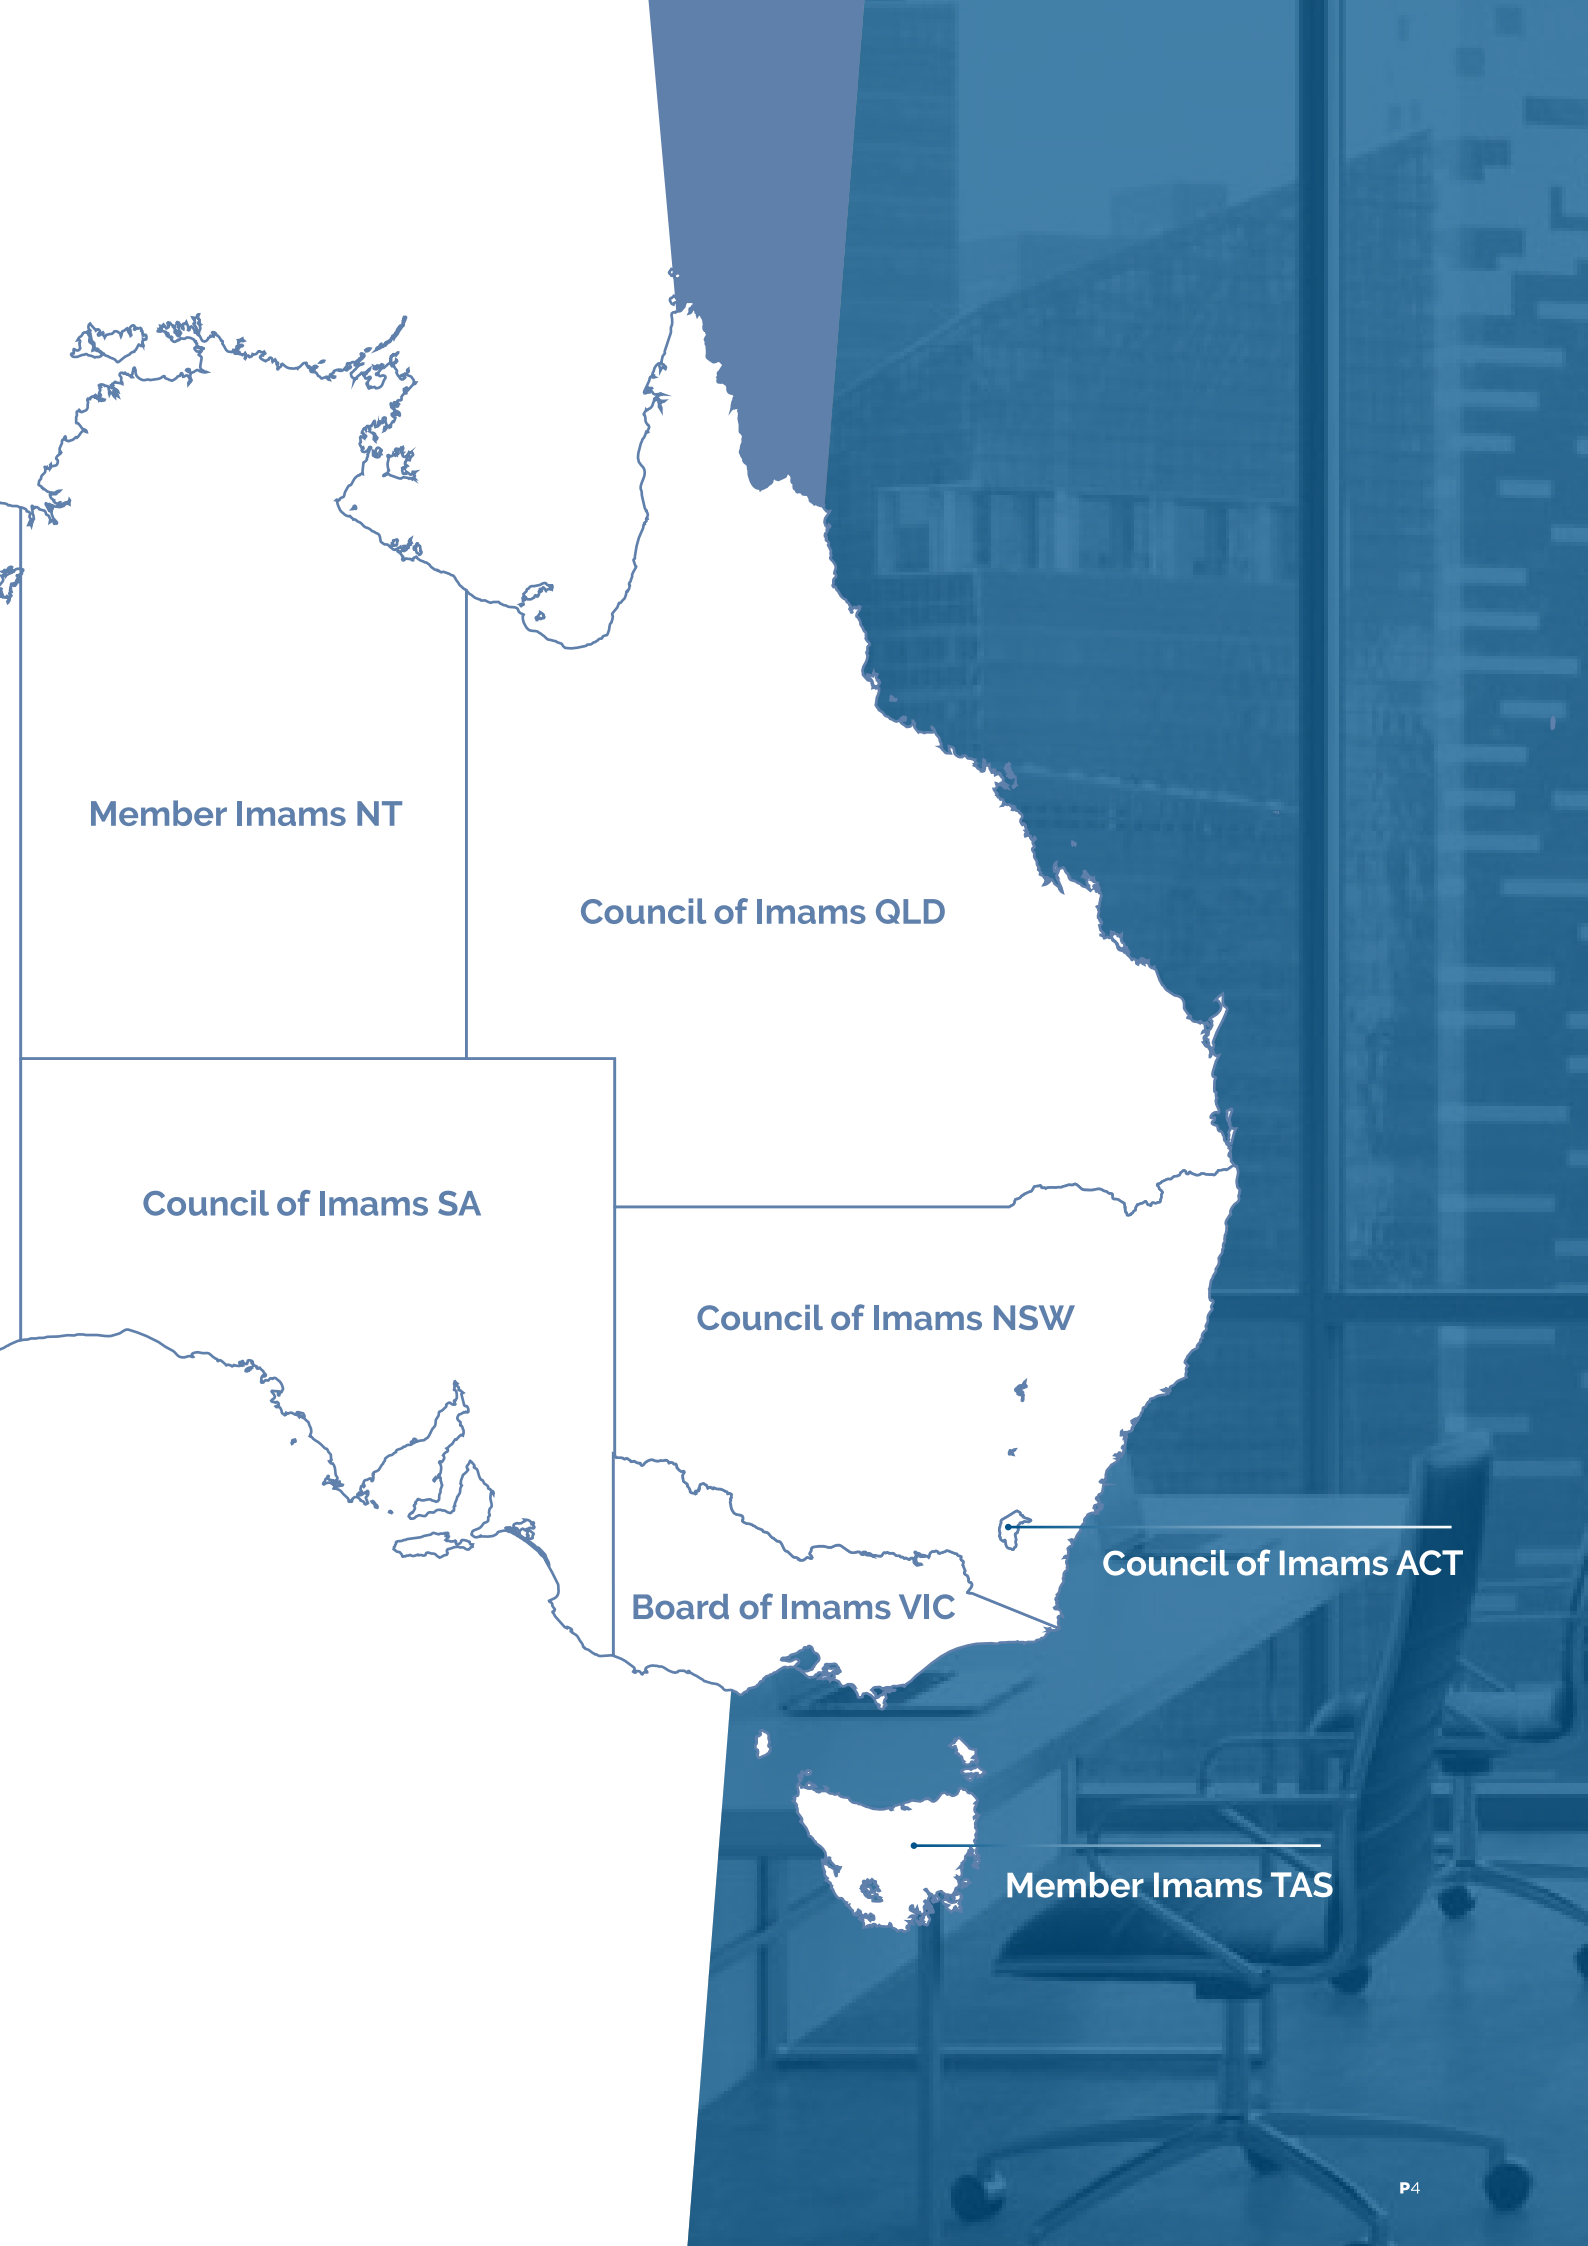

The mission of ANIC is to provide religious leadership, rulings and services to the Muslim community of Australia. ANIC endeavours to support the local Islamic community in all areas, by fostering good relations with other religious communities and the wider Australian society, in an effort to promote harmony, cooperation and successful integration within mainstream society.

Our Imams are located in every Australian State

Currently there are over 200 Member Imams who are active in working with the Muslim Community in all states and territories.

ANIC is currently the sole national body of Imams and Islamic Scholars with a broad community representation. This places the Council in a unique position to officially represent the wider interests of the Australian Muslim Community. The ANIC members are involved in the day-to-day affairs of the Islamic community and in addressing and assisting in the affairs and concerns of the growing Muslim community.
